TRUCK HITS TWO AUTOS

Bread Truck Crashes Into Two Machines on Reading Road Without Serious Injury to Occupants. Later Hit By Motorcycle.

A Bond Bread truck, operated by John J. Dudley of 19 Russell street, Charlestown, was responsible for the damaging of two automobiles and a motorcycle, the serious injury of at least two persons and minor injuries to several more, Wednesday afternoon, when it ran amuck, crashed into two automobiles and was then left unlighted on the main highway for a motorcycle to run into early in the evening.

The truck was travelling at a fair rate of speed along South Main street in the direction of Reading and collided with the auto of Frank S. Drewett of Wells Road, Reading near the junction of Main street and Wildwood road. The crash stove in one side of Mr. Drewett's machine, but the truck seemingly not content with one minor accident, of continued down the hill on the left side of the road. An auto owned by Stanley Woytyk and operated by John Sozo of Wakefield was coming up the hill at the time. The driver at first thought the truck would turn out of the way, but when it continued straight on, things began to look like a head-on collision. The driver turned his car over to the left into the car tracks in an effort to escape the crash but the truck followed and turning a half circle crashed into the right side of the machine, pushed it the rest of the way across the road and overturned it. There being no other automobiles in sight at the moment the truck came to a stop.

The occupants of the second machine, in addition to the two above mentioned were Miss Annie Wingen and Miss Isabell Ell. The former suffered from bruises about the arms and face and the latter, who was riding in the front

ANNUAL LEGION BAZAAR

Extensive Plans Completed by Legion Ladies Auxiliary for Bazaar of Months on Thursday

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the American Legion who are having full charge of the Legion Bazaar which will be held in the Town Hall next Thursday from 2.00 p. m. to 10.00 p. m. have fully completed their plans for the event. The affair will be in the form of an "All the year round" bazaar, with tables for each month in the year, the various tables carrying goods which are appropriate to the month after which they are named. Encouraging reports have been received by Mrs. Fred Cheney who is chairman in charge of the Bazaar and everything points to the complete success of the undertaking.

The January table, in spirit with the month of ice and snow will dispense ice cream. At the February table, the month of entertainment and holidays, one may get a delicious cup of tea or coffee. Come prepared to entertain your friends. March, when the winds blow and we huddle close to the fire or make fudge in the kitchen, offers a most tempting display of candy and sweets for your selection. Of course, April is a wet month and we couldn't wash without water so you can get your laundry done at the April table. Laughing, surprising May offers all kinds of novelties for your selection. June offers punch to quench the thirst and those in charge guarantee that it will have a "moreish" taste. The ladies of the Free Church who are noted for their cooking are presiding over the July table with cake, doughnuts and cookies. In August we start out sewing for the fall so the August table will offer domestic and childrens clothes and will make a specialty of aprons. September, hay fever and fall colds, what else but handkerchiefs could that month have? October with the Harvest season to draw on will furnish you with all sorts of good things in cans and jars, while to November has been given the honor of furnishing you

At a special Town meeting held on Tuesday evening the citizens of Andover by an almost unanimous vote disposed of the town farm property, accepting an offer of $15,000 from the American Woolen company through William M. Wood, its president, for the building and about eight acres of land. The property was purchased by Mr. Wood for development; streets will be laid out and houses erected in the near future.

The town also voted to extend the sewer up Lowell street as far as Canterbury street, a distance of about 2000 feet at an estimated cost of about $5000.

The meeting was opened promptly at 7.30 o'clock with Moderator Alfred L. Ripley presiding. There were nearly 300 voters present including four or five women voters.

After reading the warrant, Article one was taken up, and John Franklin made the motion relative to the Town Farm property. The motion did not bring out any discussion after it had been seconded by David R. Lawton.

Judge C. U. Bell asked if any provision had been made for the care of the inmates and Chairman Donald of the Board of Selectmen informed the meeting that it was intended to secure a small building of some sort and that as there would be $30,000 available for this purpose it was not unlikely that a suitable place could be secured. He stated that an article would be inserted in the warrant next March to cover this. The citizens then voted that the town accept the offer of William M. Wood, made for the American Woolen Co., of $15,000 for the balance of the town farm land west of the Boston and Maine R. R., and the buildings thereon and that the buildings be vacated not later than Oct. 1, 1922. The vote was Yes, 174. No, 6.

Article two was then taken up and Dr. Charles E. Abbott moved that the town appropriate the sum of five thousand ($5000) dollars for the purpose of extending the sewerage system from the main trunk line on Haverhill street up Lowell street to Canterbury street, a distance of about 2000 feet and assess betterments upon the estates benefited by said extension in accordance with the provisions of the statute controlling the assessing of sewer betterments in

"The Rose Girl," opened at the Wilbur Theatre last week, to capacity audiences which laughed and applauded throughout the length of this piquant and colorful musical comedy, has entered the second week of its run at the Wilbur Theatre with every sign of huge success hung up around and all over it. The spontaneous approval of the first audience has spread the glad word around Boston that the first big musical success of the season has arrived and theatre parties have begun to flock in, not only from Harvard, Wellesley, Lowell and other institutions, but from the suburban and outlying towns.

The charm of "The Rose Girl" lies in its swift, romantic action and its happy blend of comedy elements. The music is extremely graceful and pretty, after the manner of those delightful operettas of a decade gone. It is bright in movement and lavishly favored with dance rhythms which, born in Russia, have traversed the continent of Europe and come to America through the door of Vienna via Dr. Anselm Goetzl, whose lovely score for "The Royal Vagabond" lifted him into the lime-light of success in New York. The book, full of comical situations and side-splitting lines, is by William Cary Duncan and Louis Simon, who also is one of the chief comedians. Fred Hillebrand, the long lank, lean and limber comedian of "Take It From Me" fame, is the featured player of the admirable "Rose Girl" cast. The romantic element is by no means lost in the humor which the Messrs. Shubert have heaped into this gorgeous production. This interest is largely carried by Marguerite Lamare, a charming little prima donna from Paris and the Chicago grand opera company; and Mr. Barbour Halliday, a young high-baritone of opulent voice and most attractive presence. Their several duets, notably "Some Sweet Day" and "The Heart of a Crimson Rose" are already the most hummed and whistled tunes in the stores and restaurants in the city.

Last but by no means least of the features which have been praised to the skies by the Boston critics—are the girls!

There are hosts of dainty, dancing sprites of adorable femininity; tall statuesque show girls with Circian forms; bevy of bounding butterflies; cohorts of angel faced debutantes; and all are gowned and garbed in the last word of French modes fitting to Paris and the French Riviera where the story is set.

Seats are now on sale at the Wilbur for all performances up to and including Thanksgiving.

TREMONT

John Charles Thomas of the noble baritone voice, John Charles Thomas of the golden smile and the engaging personality, John Charles Thomas, the one vivid figure and commanding presence in musical comedy, will be at the Tremont Theatre, in Boston, next Monday at the head of his own company, in "The Love Letter," as his manager Charles Dillingham has advanced him to the foremost position of star of light musical roles. It was the logical thing to do, for Mr. Thomas has won this distinction and attained a large and enthusiastic following by his excellent work in "Apple Blossoms." His new play, although founded on a comedy by Franz Molnar, was written by Victor Jacobi, collaborator who supplied him with all the splendid opportunities of Apple "Apple Blossoms." Mr. Thomas is seen at his best in the new play; he has more songs and better songs than in any other role, and he sings them with the richness of voice and admirable style for which he is famous. During the course of the story of "The Love Letter" the star is called upon to enact no less than five different parts, each with its characteristic vocal number, which is some feat even for so competent an artist.

"The Love Letter" exerts the best acting and singing from those who tell its story, and Mr. Dillingham has surrounded his new star with an ensemble of unrivaled singers, dancers and comedians. Carolyn Thomson is the prima donna; and Marjorie Gatenon and Charles Judels are the chief comedy experts; Fred and Adele Astaire, the sensational eccentric dancers, are the most unique offering of the kind in musical comedy. Others prominent in the cast are Benjie Franklin, Rita Dane, Alice Brady, Pearl Eaton, Roger Davis, Townsend Aherne, Henry White, in addition to the famous New York Globe Theatre Chorus. Edward Royce staged the production and devised all the original stage business.

Charles Dillingham has equipped "The Love Letter" with a scenic and sartorial background of a beauty and lavishness never before attempted.

There are the glowing canvases of Joseph Urban, whose artistic fancy found unparalleled opportunities in the fantastic story of "The Love Letter," and the colorful and beautiful costumes. "The Love Letter" comes here direct from its success at the Globe Theatre.

Massachusetts State Grange to Hold a Rousing Meeting in Springfield

An approaching event of intense interest to the 45,000 Grange members in Massachusetts is the 49th annual session of the State Grange, which will convene in Springfield for three days, beginning Tuesday, December 13, and which promises to be the largest annual gathering the Grange organization in this state has ever held. There will be a voting membership of more than 600 delegates and as this is biennial election year a larger number than usual other members will be attracted to the session. The beautiful municipal auditorium in Springfield is the meeting place and that city affords almost unlimited hotel accommodations for such an event.

Tuesday, the first day, will be devoted to annual reports and business, while in the evening Governor Channing Cox will be the guest of honor and address the convention. A one hour's organ recital on Springfield's unrivaled municipal organ will provide a delightful entertainment feature and at 10 P. M. Springfield Grange will tender a reception to the delegates and Patrons.

Wednesday morning comes the special order for election of Grange officers and that evening the sixth degree will be conferred in full form on a class probably reaching 500 or more candidates, covering all parts of Massachusetts. The famous Weber Quartet of Boston will sing for the degree and give a concert recital afterwards; other speakers of note and prominent officials will also address the Wednesday sessions. Thursday will be devoted to business, shaping the legislative policy of the organization and planning the year's work ahead.

An active list of working committees for the Springfield session, embracing every Pomona and subordinate master in the state, will soon be issued and these committees will get to work at once on study of the various subjects assigned them. Such committees all present a report at the annual session and such report constitutes the basis for discussion and action by the body. Other features of interest to be included in the three days' program are being prepared and will be announced later.

The past year has been the most successful the Massachusetts State Grange has ever known. Membership has passed the 44,000 mark and there are nearly 300 active subordinate Granges in the state, several new ones having been instituted this year, with a number of others probably between now and December. The Granges of the Commonwealth are holding 8000 meetings every year, bringing together a total audience of fully 1,000,000 people, and the organization is rapidly becoming one of the best-known factors for Massachusetts progress.

Killing Just To Kill

Last week a small black bear became lured with his surroundings in the Canadian woods bordering Lake Michigan and decided to brave the waters of Saint Mary's river and swim over to Duck Island, a mile away. He had a good start and was swimming along not bother the world and hoping that the world would not bother him. He had not reckoned on man.

On shore was a party of two men and a woman. One man jumped into a skiff and armed with a revolver and ax set out in pursuit. As he neared the bear he fired the revolver and missed. The other cartridges refused to fire. He paddled up to the bear and struck it with an ax. The bear, fired with the instinct of self-preservation, got his forepaw on the gunwale of the boat, and the man grabbed him by the throat and beat his head in with the ax.

Loading the dead bear into the boat, he rowed ashore, where he was congratulated on his bravery.

Thus the story was told in the news dispatches of a recent day. The black bear lives principally upon berries, roots and grubs. In only the very rarest of cases has he been known to attack a human being. His pelt in August is useless.

A bear in water is practically defenseless.

The man who killed the bear was Chase S. Osburn, former governor of Michigan.

The Girls Club of Smith and Dove held a very large and pretty Halloween party at the Hillside on Monday evening. The whole of the building was given over to the club and about 150 were present.

The main dining room was gorgeously decorated with Halloween effects, and as each guest entered she had to pass through a chamber of horrors which was filled with ghosts. Many of the girls wore costumes, and a very enjoyable evening was spent playing games and dancing. Refreshments of doughnuts, cheese sandwiches, coffee and cider were served. Music was furnished by the Andover-Lawrence orchestra.

The committee in charge of the affair were: Misses Jessie Haddon, Ruth Abbott, Josephine Carroll, Jessie Bland, Jessie Smith, Jennie Cuthbert, Elsie Hart, Lizzie Dyer, Maud Millet and Guenn Cooke.

The Alpha Phi Chi girls of the Free church were the guests Tuesday night of the Grenfell chapter of the X. B. K., when they were tendered a Halloween party by the young men in the parish house.

The dining room was decorated with the conventional Halloween colors and the usual games were played. Bobbing for apples, marshmallow eating contest, peanut hunt and race and a catechism of cat words created much fun.

In one corner of the room was a fortune telling booth, presided over by a ghost behind a huge jack-o'-lantern given by J. E. Greeley of the Rockport market, where everyone heard coming events in their lives foretold. The ghost in flesh was Robert Dobbie. James Low and Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock had charge of the entertainment.

Refreshments of sweet cider, sandwiches, ice cream, cake and fruit were served by the committee, John Caldwell and Geoffrey Nicoll.

Christ Church Notes

Sunday will be observed throughout the Episcopal Church as Missionary Centennial Day. It is interesting to note that the Japanese Ambassador to the United States, K. Shidehara, and the Chinese Minister, Lao-ke Alfred Sze, among others, have written to the President of the Council of our Church, congratulating this Church and commending its missionary work.

Phillips Brooks Chapter will hold a social evening to-morrow, Saturday, from 7.45 to 11 P. M. There will be a small admission price for the dancing, and ice cream will be for sale.

Gordon S. Brown will take his place as Organist and Choir master of Christ Church on Sunday. His record is one of unusual experience and the promise for good results is most excellent.

TOWN MEETING

the town of Andover. Also that the Town Treasurer, with the approval of the Selectmen, be authorized to borrow the sum of $5000, the same to be paid from the tax levy of 1922.

Dr. Abbott stated that the Board of Health had gone over the plans very carefully and in their judgment this work would have to be done.

Fred M. Cheney asked if the Finance committee had passed judgment on this article and Henry A. Bodwell replied that this committee had approved it. He said that when the matter had been talked over last spring it was not thought necessary at that time, but so many new houses had been erected in that section that the committee had later approved the plans.

William A. Trow asked if the cost per foot had been estimated and B. Rogers, chairman of the Board of Public Works stated that it would cost $1.10 a foot. The vote was then taken and was unanimously in favor of the measure.

Under Article three, relating to new voting precincts in Andover, Town Clerk George A. Higgins moved that the town accept the provision of Section 20, Chapter 39, of the general laws relative to precinct voting, which allows the holding of election of officers and transactions of town business on separate days and also precinct voting in town elections. Passed by unanimous vote without discussion.

Article four relating to any other business was then taken up, and Hon. John N. Cole presented the following motion: That the school committee be requested to make a survey of school conditions in Shawheen Village covering present school population and school accommodations; also such further study as is necessary to properly anticipate and provide for public school needs of that section of the town, and report the result of such survey and study to the next annual town meeting.

Mr. Cole then called the attention of the meeting to the fact that more accommodations would be necessary to carry on the town elections and he made the following motion: That the selectmen be requested to consider the need of establishing voting precincts in Andover. If they decide that the same should be established and re-arranged before the next annual town election they are requested to report relative thereto with their recommendations, to a special town meeting to be held not later than February 1, 1922. If said report is not made to such special meeting, it is to be made to the next annual town meeting. The motion was carried unanimously.

Dr. Abbott urged the citizens to consider the representative form of government which he said had been tried out in several towns and had proved successful. He presented the following motion which was unanimously carried: That the moderator appoint a special committee of five to investigate the question of a representative form of town meeting for the town of Andover, and report at a special, or the next annual town meeting.

Henry A. Bodwell then moved that a committee of five be appointed by the moderator to make investigations in regard to a new building or purchasing a suitable home to care for the inmates of the town farm and report at the next annual town meeting.

Thomas E. Rhodes opposed the motion stating that it was the duty of the Selectmen and Overseers of the Poor to do this work and that in his judgment in their official capacity they should not have this duty taken out of their hands. As a member of the Board of Public Works he said he would seriously object to having a special committee undertake work for that board.

It was then voted that the Selectmen be given power to add two members to their board and make a report at the next annual meeting regarding the housing of the Poor Farm inmates. The meeting adjourned at 8.30 o'clock.

Poem

Have you heard the Saviour speaking,
"Will you this day be made whole?"
Have you felt the thrill of healing
As His magic wand touches you?

Have you heard the Saviour speaking?
Deaf and dumb, and blind and lame,
As He lifts His hands in healing,
Gives you health and life again?

Have you heard the Saviour saying?
"Poor and outcast, leprosy ones,
By My touch of gracious healing,
I will give you health again?"

Have you heard the Saviour speaking?
"Bring your little ones to me,
Cradle in my arms I'll take them,
Show them what My love will be."

Have you heard the Saviour speaking?
As He meets the dead one day?
"I will surely raise him living,
Give him Life again today."

Have you heard the Saviour speaking?
"Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men."
As with word and hands uplifted
He commands his, "Live again!"

Oh the blessed thought—Tomorrow
The Great Physician comes again.
To restore His first Creation,
Making all things new again.

Armistice Memorial Service

In accordance with the custom instituted last year by the Andover Post No. 8, American Legion, a Memorial Meeting will be held at the Town Hall on Sunday Evening, November 13, at 7.30 o'clock. There will be special music and community singing, a tribute to the Andover men who died in the service, and two other brief addresses.

The Post has been fortunate in securing President Clarence A. Barbour of Rochester, N. Y. to speak upon the question of the limitation of armaments. President Barbour is an especially strong platform speaker and enjoys wide popularity. He is well known as a speaker in all parts of the country.

Reverend Father Fogarty of St. Augustine's Church will offer prayer. Rev. Markham W. Stackpole of the Academy Chapel and Chaplain of the Andover Post of the American Legion will preside at the meeting. Other speakers will be announced within a few days.

The hearty cooperation and attendance of the people of the town was the largest factor in the success of the meeting last year and it is hoped that similar interest will be shown this year in making this meeting an adequate tribute to the memory of the Andover dead.

Andover Mothers' Club

The regular meeting of the Andover Mothers' Club was held in the Punched school building, Wednesday Nov. 2, the President, Mrs. Buchanan presiding. Several new members were present. After a brief discussion it was decided to give the two athletic associations $25 each from the sum realized at the recent fair, and the remainder of the sum amounting to $13, was given to the milk fund in the school. After this amount was used up it was voted to donate $3 per month for the remainder of the school term.

The attention of the Mothers' was called to the Mothers' Club Table at the coming Legion Bazaar, the articles are not to be sold, but given to any of our sick soldier boys needing them. The list includes sweaters, socks, handkerchiefs, tooth brushes and paste, cigarettes, beads to be made into chains, books, etc.

The Mothers' Club gratefully acknowledge the generosity of Mr. Ralph and Mr. Barrett who kindly gave their janitor services free the night of the recent entertainment and sale.

It is earnestly hoped that any one interested in Child Welfare will join the Andover Mothers' Club. Any one whether a mother or not is eligible for membership. We need the hearty co-operation of every woman in Andover.

ANNIE M. FOSTER,

Duck Pin Bowling Opens

The Andover Duck Pin Bowling League was officially organized last Friday evening at a meeting at the Essex street alleys with a membership of six teams. William McIntosh was elected president of the league, James Rosa, secretary and treasurer, and the meeting elected an advisory board consisting of P. Doherty, James Kinnear, Raymond Metcalf and Harry Kelson.

The teams got under way this week, rolling two matches Tuesday and another last night. In Tuesday's matches Doherty's All-Stars took three points from the Rockports, Cairnie's 105 in the first string giving them a wide margin in the total. Doherty had a high string for the evening of 296.

The Braves and McIntosh's Pets had a close fight, the latter team taking the second string with a sufficient margin to give them the total by one point.

South Church Notes

The service in observance of Armistice Day will be held at twelve o'clock on Friday as recommended by the Governor of this Commonwealth and the President of the United States. All people who would like to spend a few moments in prayer at this hour are invited to step into the Auditorium of the South Church just before 12 o'clock.

The A. P. C. Sorority is preparing an interesting entertainment for the middle of this month.

The X. B. K. is to have a large initiation in two weeks for a group of new members.

Tuesday Club Entertains

The Tuesday club opened its social season this week when its members were at home to their many friends at 74 Bartlett street, the residence of Mrs. John Voorhis Holt.

The brilliant orange reds and yellows of autumn filled the house with cheerful color and made the dull November weather forgotten. Guests were received by Mrs. Holt and the club president, Mrs. Matthew S. Colquhoun in the living room where chrysanthemums were used with good effect.

Those who acted as ushers were: Mrs. George Hussey, Mrs. P. B. Whittemore, Mrs. Benjamin R. Bradley and Mrs. Frank L. Brigham.

The decorations in the dining room were especially effective. On the tea table the centerpiece showed the national colors found in the red of the berry, the white of the snowberry and the blue of the privet. The side table was banked with autumn leaves and the orange and yellow of bitter-sweet repeated in many curiously shaped gourds half-concealed among the leaves was unusual and beautiful. A mass of oak leaves was effective in the entrance hall against the staircase, and baskets filled with sprays of the fruiting shrubs were freely used in other parts of the house. The entire scheme of decoration was the work of Miss Florence Parker and Mrs. Anna Paddock.

During the earlier part of the afternoon tea was poured by Mrs. Eugene M. Weeks and Mrs. Nathan C. Hamblin, and later by Mrs. John N. Cole and Mrs. V. D. Harrington. They were assisted in serving by Mrs. Henry A. Bodwell, Miss Alice Coutts, Mrs. F. H. Foster and Miss C. Madeleine Hewes.

Guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Henry C. Sanborn and Mrs. Joseph C. Kimball.

The members of the committee in charge of the affair were Mrs. Chester D. Abbott, chairman, Mrs. Horace Hale Smith, Mrs. Chester W. Holland, Miss Florence Parker, and Mrs. Anna Paddock.

Active Old Age

After harvesting his garden crop, and making everything snug for the winter, Cyrus Henry Brown, father of Mrs. Chester D. Abbott, left town this week for Providence, R. I.

On Nov. 24, Mr. Brown will celebrate his 92nd birthday with his children and grandchildren, and the family will gather in his honor at the Mansfield Inn, Mansfield, Mass.

Mr. Brown's rosy cheeks, physical well being, and alert mind belie his years, and after a long and useful life we can think of him saying in the words of the Psalmist, "I have been young, but now am old; yet have I not seen the righteous forsaken, nor his seed begging bread."

Mr. Brown's address is 155 Irving Ave., Providence, R. I.

A Pernicious Influence

Frederick had discovered "Treasure Island" the other day and devoured it in one blissful feast, lasting from breakfast till bedtime, when he was forcibly pried loose from the book. He was obviously in a trance as he undressed, but still his demure mamma was not exactly prepared for the variation which he sprung when he came to say his prayers.

Pranks to Deviltry

Is the public going to be obliged to treat the observance of Halloween in much the same way that it handled the fourth of July situation some years ago? The manner of observance is rapidly approaching the same sort of a rough-house that was associated with conditions when the "Safe and Sound Fourth" program began, resulting in a little sanity for that particular holiday. There was very much more reason for noise, disturbance and overflow of spirits on the Fourth of July than the writer is able to see attached to Halloween. Nevertheless if we are to judge by what happened in Andover the last night of October this year and further judge by the newspaper reports of incidents all over the country, about the roughest Halloween that we have ever seen has the label of 1921 attached to it.

Here in Andover the irresponsible kid, growing worse and worse every day, reached his very highest level in pranks that passed the bounds of real fun, and actually committed mischief in many places. The writer has almost lost patience in discussing this type of the present generation and the failure of the authorities to control it. The streets are full of noisy children, with no respect for anybody else, all hours of the day and almost all hours of the night. To hope for relief from parents seems of no avail, and to secure any relief from school or police authority seems equally hopeless. We may talk about the problem of the unemployed and the thousand and one other problems that occupy the public press, but in the last analysis there is no problem in the whole world more serious and disturbing at the present time than the problem of the non-existence of any direct control of the growing youth.

The day when the right to whip the school pupil was taken away, rapidly followed by the many other abolishment of one after another of the corrective features of controlling young life, began the downward trend. Supplementing that has been the careless viewpoint of ninety per cent of the parents for the child ends with the payment of the physician at the birth, and now we find our schools not only without authority to punish, but with no interest in correction, every movement that is made there being in the line of petting and pampering, such as a fresh luncheon every hour, or some sort of attention to lead the child to believe himself to be a superior being, with no attention other than to cater to his whims and fancies. He leaves that atmosphere, is driven on to the street by his parents, and assumes the same attitude toward everything and every person he comes in contact with.

It is no wonder that Halloween under these conditions has reached the place where many people and many newspapers are querying whether restrictive measures must not be taken to control what was supposed to be a prank time, but what has become a genuine rough-house.

Editorial Cinders

Last week's issue contained a news account of a high compliment paid to Alexander Lamont by his associates in the Smith and Dove mill, upon the completion of fifty years' service for that concern. Few men have had an opportunity to contribute to the whole community life more than Mr. Lamont has contributed in this time, in addition to what he has done for his direct employers. It has never been enough for Mr. Lamont to do his daily work at the mill, but outside of that, in politics, in neighborly relations, and in friendly attitude toward his fellow men, he has been one of the best citizens that the town of Andover has ever had. His active life will not end until the final day, but we do hope that the later years that should be his may find him taking more ease and comfort,—not as much as he has earned, because that would not be his nature,—but all that his near ones can compel him to, because an abundant reward right here is due such men as Alexander Lamont.

The special town meeting was quiet, peaceful and wise, acting positively upon questions entirely related to the rapidly growing northern section of the town. It was good to see the almost unanimous approval of the eminently fair proposal made by Mr. Wood in connection with the town farm purchase, and the agreement to carry on the necessary work of sewer extension with no division whatsoever. Such other action as was taken in connection with investigation of conditions for future town legislation was in the right line, and will undoubtedly uncover in due time many more problems to be considered in connection with Shawshinn Village than we have yet given any attention to. May they be dealt with fairly and wisely, as they certainly will be if the attitude exhibited at the special meeting on Tuesday can be maintained. The one little rift in the cloud relative to the appointment of a special committee to study the new town farm building indicates that in the mind of one person at least the high school building will never become a thing of beauty, or even of satisfaction. It appears to be one of the dead things that cannot so satisfactorily be buried as to be forgotten. Why not if so troubled by it carry a daily pail of water to make the ivies grow a little faster so that the walls that are so ugly may be more quickly covered? We have really got a lot of things more worth while to think of in Andover, and more important for consideration than our utilitarian high school, though I guess we all agree that one sample of that kind is sufficient. Let us not repeat it in some of the other things that we are thinking about.

Police Court Notes

In police court Friday, Sumner S. Gordon of Providence, R. I., was fined $50 by Judge Stone for reckless driving when it is alleged he ran into the car of Irving J. Dillon of 9 Stevens street, Lawrence, Friday evening, Oct. 21, on Andover hill. He appealed and was held for the Superior court. Atty. Jos. L. Burns prosecuted and Atty. M. A. Sullivan of Lawrence was counsel for the defense.

At a session of the court yesterday afternoon, Judge Stone fined Fred W. Westcott of 78 Summer street, $25.00 and costs on a charge of operating a motor vehicle under the influence of intoxicating liquor. The defendant was driving a machine without lights along North Main street last Saturday evening and crashed it to Ford, owned and operated by Michael J. Osmalin of 102 Baily street, Lawrence.

Collision on Essex Street

A Ford sedan owned by Joseph Daley of Bartlett street and operated by Leo Daley of the same address was smashed by a Pierce Arrow touring car operated by Frank L. Dwyer of 54 Wilnot street, Lawrence, at the junction of Essex and Central street last Wednesday evening.

The Ford was not badly damaged however as Dwyer was travelling at a slow rate of speed and had his car well under control. Daley was coming up Essex street and Dwyer was driving into Central from North Main street when the collision occurred.

Andover Boys are Reported Missing

Charles Mears, aged 13 years, and Herbert Coekum, aged 14 years, both of Andover, have been reported missing from home and the local police have been requested to be on the lookout for them. They disappeared Wednesday after they had left home to go to school.

The boys according to the report had $25 between them. Mears was dressed in corduroy pants, a coat, a striped cap and red sweater. He is described as being of slight build. Coekum, who is crippled, had on a soldier hat when he left home.

Demonstration of Lungmotor

George Harvey, special representative of the Lungmotor company of Boston was in town on Tuesday afternoon testing the local apparatus stationed in the Engine House. He is planning for a public demonstration before the firemen doctors, police, and all others interested some time next week.

This most practical machine has been in the possession of the town for some time, and fortunately so far it has had to be used but once, but it is something that should be in the possession of every town and the method of use should be known to a large number of competent individuals.

Free Church Notes

The Men's Discussion Class will meet at noon on Sunday to discuss "The Church's part in the Disarmament Conference."

On Friday, November 11, at noon a service of prayer will be held at the Free Church. The day is of especial significance both at the anniversary of the signing of the Armistice and as the opening day of the Conference on Limitation of Armament. President Harding and Governor Cox have both issued proclamations asking the people to gather in their churches for prayer and in accordance with their expressed wish, a brief service will be held. Any who wish are invited to drop in for a few minutes to remember our soldier dead and to pray for the success of the great conference.

Lecture in Town Hall

W. A. H. Wells of Providence, R. I., spoke last Sunday afternoon in the Town Hall to a small but enthusiastic audience on the subject, "Millions now Living May Never Die."

Mr. Wells, speaking under the auspices of the International Bible Students Association, drew the proofs of his statements from the Bible, taking his passages from both the Old and New Testaments. Members of the community who were unable to attend on Sunday may obtain the lecture in printed form from the headquarters of the association in New York City.

November Club Art Department Trips

The Art Department of the November Club have planned two very interesting trips for the coming week. On Monday, November 7th, members of the department will leave Andover on the 8.08 train for Boston to visit the Boston Art Museum where special attention will be paid to the recently unveiled Sargent decorations. It is hoped that Miss Emily Means will be able to be with the members of the club for a few minutes before luncheon. Later in the day a visit will be paid to the Fitzgerald gallery.

On Thursday, November 10th, those in charge have planned a trip to the Peabody Museum in Salem, with a short stop at the Essex Museum and the House of the Seven Gables. Professor Morse will meet the members of the club in the Marine room at 9 o'clock where one of the finest collections of the sort in the world was brought together over a hundred years ago by old Salem sea-captains. The collection includes the utensils, implements of war, articles of dress, and examples of the religion and art of the natives of the Malay Archipelago, Pacific islands, North and South America and Africa. The collection of Japanese curios is the most complete in the world. The party will leave Andover square at 7.35 A. M., on the Reading car, connecting at Meadowview at 8.11 and reaching Salem at 8.41. A table for twelve will be set up at the Museum for those wishing to bring lunch. The party will probably return on a train leaving Salem at 1.15 P. M.

Meeting of Andover League of Women Voters

A very interesting meeting of this league was held on last Monday at Miss Shapleigh's. After a short business meeting, at which a new constitution was adopted, a pleasant surprise awaited us. Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird and Mrs. George Perkins came to visit us unannounced, and were most cordially welcomed. Mrs. Bird had much of interest to tell us about her efforts to show President Harding that the men and women of Massachusetts pledge their "united support to our President in this effort to secure the limitation of armaments by international agreement." She had sent a circular to every league of women voters in the state, asking that the officers of each league sign it to show that the league endorsed it. A similar circular has been sent to every Republican organization in this state. And all the circulars will be bound in book form and given to the President by a special messenger.

Dr. Percy Barnes addressed the meeting, speaking on "Limitations of Armaments and the coming conference." He made very plain the economic need for such limitation, also the foolishness of another war which would be simple massacre, and pointed out America's power to help all other nations through her own prosperity and freedom from crushing taxation.

After the speaking, tea was served and a general discussion followed "over the tapestry." Many thanks are due Miss Shapleigh for her charming hospitality.

Free Church Harvest Supper

The Ladies Benevolent Society of the Free Church will conduct their annual Harvest Supper and entertainment this evening in the Parish House. With the bounty time of the year at hand, with nature supplying the wherewithal and good old New England cooking putting it into tempting form, and with the promise that nothing will be omitted which should be on hand at Harvest suppers, the fact that the public is very cordially invited should be good news to many.

Following the supper, there will be an entertainment, humorous, instrumental and vocal.

seat was badly cut about the head shoulders by the flying glass. Dr. Look rendered first aid and the girls were able to return to their homes.

Woytyk's car was practically demolished. The running boards and mudguards on both sides were ripped off and both wheels on the left side were broken when the machine was tipped over. The debris and the truck were left by the roadside.

About eight o'clock, John White of 19 Park street, and Austin Dentrement of 8 Turnbull avenue, Wakefield, were coming along the highway on the former's motorcycle. Dentrement in the side car, when they collided with the now stationary but lightless truck. Both boys were so badly injured that it was necessary to rush them to the Lawrence General Hospital, where stitches were taken in the cuts which they had sustained about the face and hands, and Dentrement was treated for body bruises. While the former was released after treatment, the latter is in a serious condition and his name is still on the dangerous list at the hospital.

The Bond Brand truck was not badly damaged.

At the time of the accident Chief Frank M. Smith noticed an automobile coming swiftly down the road at a 60-mile clip. As there were many automobiles and people surrounding the smashed cars the driver of the oncoming automobile was endangering the lives of a large number of persons by his reckless speeding. Chief Smith put up a warning hand to stop the car and the signal was heeded but on account of the fast rate of speed at which the automobile was proceeding the wheels skidded along about 150 feet before the machine could be stopped.

The driver, Joseph I. Margolis of 45 Hansborough street, Dorchester, pleaded with the chief to let him go promising that he "wouldn't do it again," but Chief Smith said that he could tell that to the judge at a future session of police court.

Red Cross Report

Miss Anna W. Kuhn, treasurer of the local branch of the Red Cross, has submitted her report for the expenditures of the past year, and it is a record of service to Andover that has really served. Of the $2752.75 raised last year in the annual enrollment, $1873.54 was expended in Public Health work, the maintenance of a district nurse, and a judicious assistance in local health problems. Of the balance, $150.00 went for relief work, actual aid to needy families, $294.00 was expended for the aid of the needy families of the ex-service men, and the remainder was used for the national, state and county work. It should be impressed on the people of Andover that the Red Cross is doing a worthy duty to the community in their local work. The committee are anxious to correct by this statement, the idea that the money is used for work in far-off countries and not in this community. It is true that some of it goes to the very worthy uses which the Armenian Red Cross put it in foreign countries, but the bulk of your yearly dues, which will be asked for in the next month, is expended in Andover where the results can be seen and appreciated.

This year's enrollment will last from November 11th to 24th.

HALLOWEEN PARTIES

Wednesday evening, Bardsley's seven piece orchestra furnished the syncopation for the evening in their usual style.

The young ladies of Abbot academy held a very successful and enjoyable Halloween party Tuesday night. Nearly every member of the school attended as well as the faculty.

Davis hall, where the party was held, was prettily decorated for the occasion with all kinds of Halloween designs. Many of the girls wore domino masks and were attired in Halloween costumes.

Games were played and later in the evening refreshments of the season were served.

The ladies of the Walter L. Raymond Camp, Auxiliary 111, held a Halloween party and entertainment last evening in the G. A. R. hall. The affair was well attended. There was a short program, consisting of solos by Mrs. Archie Mayo, readings by Mrs. Thomas Neil, a piano solo by Miss Frances Finucane, and, as a grand finale, a performance by the famous Pythian sisters' Zuzu band.

Miss Annie Kibbee won the apple eating contest, Mrs. Charles Stentiford took the crumb-eating contest easily from a standing start, and Miss Margaret MacCord won the peanut race in a like manner. Refreshments of doughnuts, cheese and coffee finished off the evening.

The committee in charge was: Mrs. Eleanor Early, Mrs. Margaret MacCord, Mrs. Charles Stentiford, Mrs. Phoebe Evans, Miss Annie Kibbee.

Phillips Academy to Observe Dante Anniversary

On the evening of Thursday, November 10, in the Stone Chapel, Phillips Academy will hold exercises commemorating the six hundredth anniversary of the death of the great Italian poet, Dante Alighieri. Although the date properly falls on September 14, it has been necessary, for various reasons, to postpone the celebration until this time. At the meeting, Principal Alfred E. Stearns will preside, and the speaker will be Dr. Samuel McComb, of Baltimore, Maryland, on the subject "The Greatness of Dante." Dr. McComb has recently been called to the Chair of Homiletics in Cambridge Theological Seminary. He is a profound student of Dante's works, and has frequently spoken on this topic. Special music will be provided, under the direction of Mr. Carl F. Pfaltzlecher.

The choir will sing an old Catholic setting of the "Dies Irae" and a portion of the same hymn from an Anonymous Requiem.

The public is cordially invited.

Note of Thanks

I wish to express my hearty thanks to the Fire Department for its prompt response and efficient service at my home last Sunday evening. It is a pleasure to commend the fine band of quiet and courteous men who protect our property.

Wedding

GIFFIN-DUNNELLS

A very pretty wedding took place last Friday evening at seven o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Dunnells on Haverhill street, when their daughter, Miss Edith A. Dunnells was married to Norman P. Giffin of this town, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Giffin of Nantucket.

As the bridal party entered the living-room, which was decorated with potted plants and autumn foliage, Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Louise Robinson of Lawrence.

The ceremony being performed in the presence of the immediate relatives of the contracting parties by the Rev. Edwin H. Prescott of Newburyport, formerly pastor of the local Baptist church.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was becomingly gowned in white georgette. She wore a tulle veil caught with orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Ruth Dunnells, who wore turquoise blue crepe de chine and carried yellow chrysanthemums.

Adolph Hohdin of Narragansett Pier, R. I., an intimate friend of the groom, was best man.

A reception attended by about seventy guests followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Giffin were assisted in receiving by the bride's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Dunnells. It is interesting to note that Mrs. Dunnells wore a gown of golden-brown faille francaise, which was a part of her own trousseau.

Guests were present from Nantucket, Cambridge, Arlington, Dorchester, Newtonville, Lawrence and Andover. A buffet lunch was served by Caterer Weigel of Lawrence. The decorations in the dining room were pink carnations.

Both are well-known young people and prominent workers in the various organizations of the Baptist church. The groom is bookkeeper for the Katama mills, South Lawrence. They received many beautiful wedding gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Giffin left after the reception on a wedding trip to Vermont. They will make their home in South Lawrence.

STENTIFORD-FAIRBROTHER

A quiet wedding took place Saturday evening at North Reading, when Miss Viola Grace Fairbrother, daughter of Mrs. Eleanor Early of this town, was married to Charles Poore Stentiford of North Reading.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Walsh of North Reading, in the presence of a few relatives and friends. Miss Marion Stentiford, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and his brother, Arthur Stentiford, was best man.

Both are well known here and are prominent workers in the Sons of Veterans and auxiliary, the groom being senior vice-commander of Walter L. Raymond camp, while the bride is assistant inside guide of the camp auxiliary. The groom is a receiving clerk in the Washington mills. Mr. and Mrs. Stentiford will live at 15 Elm street.

SELDEN-EVERETT

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in Bennington, Vermont, Wednesday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock, when Miss Anne Holton Everett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Everett, was united in marriage to James Kirtland Selden of Andover, son of Mrs. George L. Selden. The bride was given away by her father.

The bride was charmingly but simply gowned in white satin, carried a shower bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley, and was attended by Miss Virginia Noel of Chicago, as maid of honor. Edward Selden, brother of the groom, acted as best man.

George Sagar of New York, Maurice Curran, Jr. of Andover, George Emmons of Brookline, and Francis Carleton of Lawrence, acted as ushers. The wedding was attended only by immediate relatives and a few intimate friends.

Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Selden left for a ten days' trip. On their return they will reside on Main street, Andover. The groom is a graduate of Harvard, class of 1916, and treasurer of the Selden Worsted Mills in Methuen. The bride graduated from Smith College in 1920.

Salvation Army Drive

Only $738.50 has been collected of the $1200.00 quota in the Salvation Army drive. The splendid work which this organization is doing merits the unconditional support of every honest citizen. The townspeople of Andover have so far given only $229.18, the balance of the total being made up by the academies and the mills. It is to be hoped that a quick response will be made to the efforts of the solicitors in the next few days.

MUSGROVE BUILDING

The P. A. Musicales

The first of the Phillips Academy Musicales takes place in the school chapel this evening at 8 o'clock. It is doubtful whether any other community of the size of Andover is offered the array of visiting talent which the music department of the school is offering the town this year at the almost ludicrously low figure of $2.00 for the season ticket. Certainly if the town is interested in a high standard of music the concerts should receive its eager support.

Death

Pollux, whose home was with Mrs. Gardner on Bartlet street, passed away last week. He survived his brother the celebrated cat called Castor by several months. His loss will be mourned by a large circle of friends not including the birds.

Christian Endeavor News from the West Church

Last Saturday night a Hallowe'en party was held in the vestry of the West Church and a large number of the members were present. Many games were played and when the vestry was darkened the Secretary of the society (in sad tones) announced the death of John Brown in an auto accident at Haggerty's Pond, and his body terribly mutilated. Lunch of cocoa, sandwiches and doughnuts, ice cream and cookies, was served.

Sunday evening being the last one in the month, Mr. Herbert Merrick showed some stereopticon pictures, the pastor reading, on Americanizing the Americans. The pictures were good, showing the negro in his Southern home, and what he needs.

No Accident Week Essays of Punched School

Two weeks ago this morning, As I was walking by, I saw young Reginald Van Dyke A gazing in the sky.

Watch Your Step

His hands were in his pockets, He walked with stately pace, Just then the poor boy stubbed his toe And fell upon his face.

I rushed with earnest fervor To where the poor boy lay And such a sight you've never seen In either work or play.

I hailed a passing auto Which slowed up at my call With many tears and many groans We reached the hospital.

I looked at him a moment All hope me had forsaken His head was cut, his arm was sprained He was most badly shaken.

As he was slowly getting well Still thinking of his fall, He saw a shining placard A-hanging on the wall.

He read, then thought a moment "Gee Whiz! it seems to me! If I had carried out those rules, I'd pay no doctor's fee.

No Accident-week a great idea Those rules I'll try to follow I'll get a poster for my room And show my head's not hollow

One morning two weeks later As I journeyed down the street I saw young Reginald Van Dyke With eyes upon his feet!

What fact had wrought this wonder? I tried for it to seek. "Why yes! I guess it must have been It was "No-Accident-Week!"

No Accident Week

The people of the United States are making a record in saving the lives of the children in Europe and Asia. It is now time for them to consider the slaughter of the children at home from causes more preventable than starvation.

There were twenty thousand graves dug in the United States in the past twelve months for the victims of accidents. At least half of these occurred through mere carelessness.

During the past twenty months three hundred and twenty-three children have been killed by motor vehicles on the Massachusetts highways. Within the same period 3,020 other children have been seriously hurt.

Many of the accidents that happen are caused by children running suddenly into the street, darting in front of traffic while at play, or by being injured while stealing a ride.

In many cases the child was of school own carelessness. Children are too young to understand the dangers of a street in which a steady stream of motor vehicles pass and their parents do not try to keep them off the highways.

In a district which includes part of Greater Boston, two hundred and five accidents, out of which seventy five were to children, have occurred during the past thirteen months. Of these, twenty five were killed by motor vehicles, seventeen by burns and scalds, and eight each by drowning and falls.

If parents will make a study of these three causes and will try to correct conditions it will be impossible to it will be possible to save young lives here as well as in Europe and Asia. Otherwise there will be twenty thousand more graves in the United States next year not caused by hunger or disease but by carelessness.

The following show a few ways how children may avoid accidents.

Before crossing a street stop, first look to the left, then to the right, and if safe go ahead.

Do not play in the street. The public street is the most dangerous place possible and was not made to play in.

Remember that in the street automobiles come quickly and silently and that if they strike you they are liable to kill you.

If standing in the middle of the street and an automobile is seen coming both ways, stand perfectly still. Do not steal rides, it is a dangerous thing to do. If you are not thrown off, you are likely to be run over by another vehicle when you jump off.

In case anyone is struck by an automobile take the number of the automobile but be sure to take it accurately.

Throwing stones at an automobile or wagon may injure the occupant or cause the driver to lose control.

Always look after a younger child because the younger children can not think quickly and do not understand danger.

MARY E. ALLEY

Safety First

"People injured in an automobile accident." "Small child run over by auto." "Auto crashes into train"—so runs the daily newspaper. One can count at least five and usually a great many more automobile accidents due to the carelessness of one driver many other people have to suffer.

He resolves to be careful after an accident but of what use are good resolutions then?

Now is the time to be careful. If you are a reckless driver, NOW is the time to consider not after you have killed or injured someone. If you haven't been abiding by that slogan "Safety First" begin now and lose your name as a reckless driver and become one of the staunch supporters of "The Safety First Motto." You will never be sorry but always glad especially when you see some reckless thing, that you have done many times yourself and which ended fatally for some one else.

Recall, Mr. Reckless-Auto-driver the careless things you did. You "cut in" and passed the first auto at the same time another was passing it, thus making three abreast, blocking the whole road each way. You passed another auto without sounding your horn. You passed four corners where four roads meet, going from thirty to forty miles an hour. You raced through a crowded city passing the halted street cars at a fast pace, thus endangering the lives of all the street car passengers who were getting out the car, also all pedestrians crossing the street. You turned a corner going at such a pace your car skidded. Just by chance, you didn't hit anyone or hurt yourself. You did not blow your horn or slow up at the Railroad Crossings perhaps getting across just as the train came in. Now you can see what narrow escapes you and others have been through and how near to death you have been just by your own recklessness.

Now you are abiding by the Safety First Motto! You run at a moderate speed, blow your horn when you should, slowing down at all Railroad Crossings and you drive slowly through the city. You endanger no-one, nor take any dangerous chances. You are now a real full-fledged auto-driver not the dangerous "get-out-of-the-way" you were once. Once a True Safety First believer, you will always be one and no doubt live a longer life and help others to do so.

Let Safety First be your motto And accident your greatest foe Safeguard yourself and others too By being careful what you do.

Don't drive too fast and sound your horn Or afterwards you sure will mourn But if that motto you uphold You will be worth your weight in gold

HARRIET REYNOLDS

Laws of 1921 Relating to Fur-Bearing Animals

Half of the 42 State legislatures in session this year enacted legislation relating to fur-bearing animals, the general trend of which was to safeguard these animals and insure prime condition of peltries. The need for such legislation is apparent in the light of estimates by raw-fur buyers that the decrease in the supply of peltries during the last 10 years has been from 25 to 50 per cent.

So states the Biological Survey, United States Department of Agriculture, in Farmers' Bulletin 1238, a summary of the trapping laws of the United States, Canada, and Newfoundland. The bulletin which lists information State by State regarding open seasons, prohibited methods, license requirements, etc., may be obtained free of charge upon application to the department at Washington, D. C. Summarizing the new legislation, in part, the department says:

The season on beavers was closed for a term of years in Indiana, Michigan, Nevada, and South Dakota, and on other in Indiana and Nevada. Muskrats were protected until 1924 in North Dakota. Open seasons for taking fur-bearing animals were shortened in Idaho, Indiana, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, and Vermont; houses, dens, or burrows of fur animals were protected in Kansas, Maine, and Michigan. Open seasons were slightly lengthened in Michigan, Ohio, South Carolina, and locally in New Hampshire."

Interesting Items From the County School at Hathorne. Helpful Hints to Farmers

New Homemaking Instructor

The Trustees have employed Miss Margaret A. Hastings of Hadley, Mass. as an instructor in the Homemaking Department. Miss Hastings is a graduate of the schools of her own town and also of Hopkins Academy of the same place. She later trained at Simmons College and at the Worcester School of Domestic Science, graduating with the Class of 1916. She has been teaching since in the schools of Connecticut, Alabama, and Pennsylvania, having been responsible for instruction in cooking, dietetics, household sanitation and science, together with some academic teaching. In the Homemaking Department of this School she will teach English, mathematics, and household art studies.

Field Day Planned for November

Efforts are being made to arrange for a union Field Day and Athletic Meet between the County Agricultural Schools and the Agricultural Departments in High Schools in Massachusetts. It is hoped that this Field Day will be held at the Essex County Agricultural School in November. Emphasis will be given to both agricultural contests as well as field events.

Bulletin on Apple Varieties

The Extension Service Department of the Mass. Agricultural College have just issued a Leaflet, No. 42, "Varieties of Apples in Massachusetts." This is a very brief, concise, readable bulletin which should be in the hands of every prospective orchardist and home fruit grower wishing the latest advice and guidance on choosing and planting apple varieties. A limited number of these bulletins are available and a copy may be obtained by addressing, Agricultural School, Hathorne, Mass.

A State Prize Winner

Ruth M. Wood of the class of 1920 was awarded the State medal at the Lynn Fair. This award was made on account of the fine dairy herd development which Miss Wood has secured by working with, and improving her Jersey cattle breed. The presentation speech was made by Governor Cox on Friday, September 18th.

It is interesting to note that Miss Wood while yet a first year student secured her start in the dairy business when she was awarded a prize calf at Springfield in 1918. She then secured the 2nd prize in a list of contestants from the ten northeastern states. There were ninety-six competitors.

Extension Department Activities

The Home Demonstration Agent is engaged in arranging details for the classes in dressmaking and millinery. These classes, in some cases, have been commenced. They are being held at various points throughout the county. Classes already underway are as follows: North Andover, Bradford, Swampscott, Lynnfield, Merrimac, Lynn (Wyoma).

The County Agricultural Agent is engaged in closing up the various demonstrations. Very interesting returns have been received on the seed potato tests. The evidence is greatly in favor of northeastern grown seed.

The poultry specialist has been holding a number of poultry culling demonstrations. This class of work is one of the most valuable and demonstrates to poultrymen one of the first steps in maintaining a profitable poultry flock.

Seasonable Notes

It is well to bank fresh soil about the trunks of young orchard trees. This will prevent swaying of the tree in the winter winds and also repel vermin.

Why not mark a few prolific wild grape vines and move them or take cuttings of the same for the home fruit garden? Wild grapes are best for use in some of the preserving operations.

The orchardist should now see to it that all leaves, grass and other rubbish are removed from the base of fruit trees. This goes a long way toward preventing injury by mice and other vermin.

In planting new grounds or extending the present plantings, why not employ some of our best native material? The climbing wood-bine, the various sumacs and the blueberries have most attractive autumn foliage. Some of the berry bearing wild species are beautiful and furnish decorations for the home grounds in winter. They also provide food and shelter for many winter species of birds.

Geraniums and other plants should be potted by this time for the winter window boxes or winter garden.

Endive is becoming more and more popular. It is a most valuable salad plant. To blanch, it is only necessary to draw the leaves up together and tie the tips with twine or raffa.

Tulips are especially good for spring bedding work. The following varieties are desirable and reasonable in price: Cottage Maid, Kaiser Kroom, La Reine, Crystallora.

Fruit harvesting should now be nearly finished. With apples it is desirable to harvest the winter sorts in about the following order: King, R. I. Greenings, Spy, Baldwin, Russett, Ben Davis.

Smith & Dove 5, Mass. Cotton 2

Smith and Dove put on their scoring shoes again when they met the Massachusetts Cotton team of Lowell in a state cup game on the local pitch and five goals were recorded to their credit before the game ended. Against this there were two goals scored and the defense of the Blue team is likewise deserving of credit for the Cotton team is one of the best in the league. The victory of the Lowell team a couple of weeks ago was ranking in the minds of Andover and the team started right in to show who was the better side. This Smith and Dove did, but it was no walk-over for forty-five minutes, both teams tried their hardest and only one goal was scored, rather only one was given, for Swanton was beaten with another which he pulled from behind the cross bar, but the referee did not allow it. Fast as the home team was, the visitors showed just as much speed and quick play forced a corner. This was got away but back came Lowell and only the wild shooting of Clegg took the edge off their attack.

Smith and Dove now worked the ball up and kept Murray and J. Brown busy. From a throw in Nicoll placed right across the goal just a few yards out but no one could connect. Before the home fans had got over their disappointment, Billie Low did the trick by scoring a nice goal after good passing placed him in possession.

Twice within a few minutes Andover threatened to score. Low headed past the post by inches and Killacky was blocked by Swanton running out. Taylor got going and looked like making the goal but as he was challenged by a back Deyermund ran out and cleared. At the other end Andover forced a corner and fast play kept the crowd on edge. Not to be outdone the Lowell boys took the ball down and the home defense was obliged to concede a corner. Jackson just blocked a terrific shot from Young. Andover was showing much better football and should have had more goals but half time found them only one ahead.

When the teams resumed after the rest both showed changes. W. Deyermund was at outside and G. Killacky at inside right. While George may not work back enough with the defense to suit a critic he certainly worked into the offense with a vengeance. He scored two goals and made it possible for Low to score one of his. Billie Deyermund also seemed to be in his element for beside doing the regular work of his outside position he scored the fifth goal for Andover. The visitors did not improve their side with their change for Murray going to outside right left a weak spot in the backs.

The second half opened with nice passing by the home team, Johnie Nicoll showed signs of coaching for he was now passing the ball instead of booting it. Skea was improving the chances that Nicoll gave him and his centers were worrying the Lowell defenders. Bill Low took up a ball from the wing and stepped past two men and finding himself too much to one side he turned the ball over to Killacky who scored the second goal. This gave the home side the confidence they were needing and this same pair got going again. This time it was Killacky who slipped the ball across for Low to shoot past the goalie for number three.

The game was now to all appearance won, but the Lowell lads did not slacken. When they were granted a penalty and Clegg scored it put life into them. But it put something into Andover also. Smith and Dove were feeling that the Lowell side was being favored in the decisions of the referee and hardly had the ball been centered than they made for the Cotton goal. And the linemen proved too strong for the Cotton for Killacky broke through and with a shot that twisted as it went he made the fourth goal. And to clinch matters and show they were real mad and much better players Bill Deyermund closed in and scored for Andover.

The Mass. Cotton team were determined to tie the game and in their final throw Harry Low shot hard for goal; the ball struck Jackson and was deflected enough to beat Deyermund who was making fast for it.

This week the Gray and Davis team will play here in the second round of the National cup.

A Unique School

There is a certain school on an island in Boston Harbor which hasn't changed the fundamental principle underlying its teaching method for more than eighty years. When The Boston Farm School was incorporated it was decided by the proprietors that the ideal and practical method of educating boys was to learn by doing. The school was located on Thompson's Island in Boston Harbor, about a mile distance from what is now City Point.

From a very valuable report made in 1839 by Henry B. Rogers, Esq. for many years an active member of the Board of Managers, we are able to get some idea of the School at this early period. The boys at that time were farmer boys doing work similar to that on the opposite shore of Dorchester and Quincy. They also worked in the house and did chores and whatever was necessary to make the home. In the winter evenings they studied and in the winter season most of them attended school and got the rudiments of a common school education. As far back as 1839, therefore, it is shown that the School was teaching the boys reading, writing, arithmetic, geography and grammar, and instruction in the first principles of agriculture, horticulture and botany; the different kinds of soil, the most important processes of cultivation, the names, uses, and distinctive qualities of seeds, plants and trees; and in order that these pupils might be trained to habits of order and industry, they were required to perform as much of the manual labor done on the farm and in the house as their various ages and capacities would permit. Each boy was required to make his own bed and keep his clothes in order. Each Sunday a preacher came down to conduct the religious services on the island.

To-day the students at The Farm and Trades School still "learn by doing" in fact; the boys attend school half a day and are employed at industrial work the other half. They are taught mechanical drawing, cabinet work, wood turning, carpentry, blacksmithing, machine work in metal, printing, painting, cobbling, office work, farming, the handling of boats and household duties. The practical application of all these is a most important phase in the instruction at this School. In the lower classes the course includes the usual grammar-school studies. In the upper classes, United States history, general history and physiology are gradually added to the course. All classes are taught to do brush and pencil drawing from nature, drawing from memory and imagination and perspective light and shade and water color. In each class literature has an important place. All the boys are taught class singing, the elements of music and staff notation. Sloyd is the basis of the mechanical teaching in the School and in the three upper grades there is practical study of meteorology. Farming is a fundamental in the course of study at the School. The farm takes an important part in the life of the School. In agriculture the aim of the School is to give every boy a definite technical and practical knowledge of the subject and to impress the truth that agriculture, besides being the most independent of all occupations, is more remunerative than many others for those who are industrious, intelligent and well trained. The technical side of agriculture is presented to the pupils by lectures and experiments both in class room and on the farm. They learn by practical field lessons the preparation of the soil, planting the seed, cultivation, harvesting, rotation of crops and setting out and caring for all kinds of shrubs and trees, including practical demonstrations in the mixing of chemicals for fertilizers. The use of farm machinery and tools, the care and management of animals, and all other farm work are practically taught.

If this school were a private school and if admission was contingent only upon a parent's ability to pay a tuition, the School probably would be overwhelmed by applications from parents who appreciate the unique advantage of having their sons taught by this eminently practical method of half a day in the schoolroom and half a day on the farm. But The Farm and Trades School is available only to a certain limited number and kind of boys.

It is in no sense a correctionary institution. It receives boys of not less than ten nor more than fourteen years of age, of good moral character, in fair physical condition and not lower than the sixth grade in school. No matter how well recommended a boy may be, if on trial he proves unfitted, he is not allowed to remain. Parents, guardians or friends are asked to contribute toward the boy's support if they are able, but boys are not rejected if this is impossible. In fact, about half the boys in the School are cared for without pecuniary aid from parents or guardians. This is made possible by contributions from friends of the School. The Farm and Trades School is only partly self-sustaining and depends for its existence on the generosity of the charitably inclined. For more than a century it has been thus supported and it has long since proved its right to be recognized as one of Boston's worth-while charities.

Spanish Influence Felt in Lace Field

The Spanish influence which is so pronounced in the fall and winter styles is making a decided increase in the demand for laces, says the Dry Goods Economist.

Naturally the demand falls mostly among the Spanish laces or laces of a type similar in design and texture. Many silk laces of gorgeous design and large mesh are being featured for this wear. These are shown in slouchings and several widths of bandings, also in square and triangular shapes for head and shoulder drapes.

Many of these laces are being shown in the newest and most fashionable colors—the coppers, fuchsias, shades, jades, corals and moonlight blues—although black is predominant.

The shawl idea is so much a part of Spanish styles that it seems destined to an important place in this revival. Lace shawls and mantillas are being worn by fashionable women as a unique and novel accessory for their formal costumes.

Some of the laces intended for shawl wear are in square design, finished around all four sides with a very beautiful hand-made silk fringe. Others are left with the usual scalloped finish, and some others are decorated with a design in apogees and cabochons. These laces to be used in the style of the Spanish mantillas are shown in various shapes, many with a short oval on one side to drape over the hair and head. These are of regular Spanish lace usually in black, but sometimes shown in cream and a few combinations of black and cream.

More novelties are on the market this season than have been shown for years past. While many of the laces that are termed Spanish have not the mesh or the general characteristics that have formerly been known as Spanish, yet they are novelty laces with a general tendency toward the Spanish influence and are of no particular kind—neither "fish, flesh, fowl, nor good red herring."

FEEBLE BLOOD WORKS HAVOC

Gude's Pepto-Mangan Makes Red Blood; Liquid and Tablet Form

When blood becomes thin and weak it is due to a falling off in the number of red blood cells. It is easily recognized by pallid skin or a bluish complexion, loss of appetite or unnatural irritability and a sensation of weakness. It is not dangerous at first. In fact, many people scarcely notice it and go on for days, thinking they will be better the next day.

The great danger is in the possibility of becoming seriously ill from disease, which can work havoc in a body that lacks the endurance and resistance in rich, red blood.

Taken in time and steadily, a few bottles of Gude's Pepto-Mangan are a great help. It improves the quality of the blood by adding red blood cells. They check the weakness, improve the appetite, and clear the complexion.

You can get Gude's Pepto-Mangan in liquid and tablet form at your druggist's. Get the genuine with the name "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" on the package. Advertisement.

Seventy-Five Years of Service

Seventy-five years ago people in New England were telling each other by spoken words what a wonderful cough and cold remedy Cerisane was. Now the newspapers spread the news through advertisements. The same company has been making Cerisane all these years. Four generations of the Wilson family have prepared this fine medicine. Read what a Rhode Island man, Mr. Henry Waleczak of 444 Mill street, Central Falls, R. I., says about Cerisane.

"I had taken a bad cold and it gave me a terrible sore throat and awful cough. I could not sleep and coughed all the time. I took a medicine that helped the cough a little bit, but made my stomach bad and put me all out of condition. Then a friend, Mr. James O'Brien, of Central Falls, told me to take Cerisane Balm. I bought a bottle from my druggist and took it regular. When I commenced I was so hoarse that I could only whisper. I was weak from coughing and was sick all over. Cerisane took the dryness out of my throat right away. In a little while the cough commenced to get easier and my throat did not hurt so much. Cerisane did not make my stomach bad like the other medicines, but let me eat all right. Then the pain in my chest went away and before the first bottle of Cerisane was all gone I was well of the cold, the sore throat and the cough. Cerisane Balm is surely the best cough and throat medicine."

Cerisane is always to be had of the following:

Hallowe'en Party at the Manor

Last Monday evening the new dining room of the Shawsheen Manor was formally opened, the occasion taking the form of a Hallowe'en Dinner Dance. Covers were laid for about two hundred guests who had previously made reservations and it was necessary to discontinue several parties who arrived too late to be accommodated.

The facilities of the new kitchen were given their first thorough test and proved equal to the occasion. A delicious dinner of many courses was served without the slightest delay, thanks to the modern equipment and efficient corps of waitresses.

Dancing continued until a late hour. Guests were present from Andover, Lawrence, Lowell, Haverhill, Boston and New York.

The decorations in the dining room which were done by John MacDonald and Miss Biddle were very artistically done, and not only admirably created the atmosphere of the season but served to add to the general jollity of the occasion and the completeness and excellence of the dinner. The season's colors and the brilliant orange of the fall and the mysterious black of the witch and goblin, were used throughout in the decorations, with the addition of the fruits of the harvest season.

Orange eyed cats, the color of night, glared from the draperies and walls, witches whispered to one another from rival broomsticks, a cauldron bubbled over a log fire in one end of the room. There were corn stalks, pumpkins, corn, yellow from the field—brilliant autumnal foliage. All the lights had their tinge of orange and red. It was a gay scene filled with dancing couples and the laughter of people who were enjoying themselves to the fullest.

Manager Biddle served a truly delicious repast. The menu follows:

Tomato on Surprise, Essence of Chicken, Chicken, Rolls, Queen Olives, Pickled Watermelon, Lobster, Crabmeat, Scallops, Oysters and Fresh Mushrooms a la Shawsheen, Dry Toast; Roast: choice, Half Roast Spring Chicken en Bourre, Long Island Stuffed Duckling, Brown Gravy, Larded Leg of Reindeer a la Creme, Cranberry Sauce, Sliced Oranges, Candied Sweet Potatoes, Delmonico Potatoes, Squash, French Peas, French Pastry, Peach Melba, Pumpkin Pie, Cafe Noir, Assorted Nuts.

Were you ever involved in a violent argument that made you feel better afterward? Neither was anybody.

HOME TEAM WINS

American Woolen Defeats Arlington
Team 3-1 in Loose Game on Balmoral Playing Fields

The American Woolen defeated the Arlington Mill team in the replayed game Saturday on the Balmoral field, Shawsheen Village, by 3 goals to 1.

The American Woolen proved to be the better team and fully deserved their victory. In the first half, the Arlington forwards in the first half, what few chances they had, failed to combine, their intended passes usually going astray and falling easy victims to the Woolen's intermediary line.

The second half was more interesting with the Arlington more in the picture. The forwards redeemed themselves, and some good combination was seen on the right wing, Rennie, Hill and Darlington being much in evidence from the untiring efforts of Kelley who was loudly applauded.

The American Woolen Team gave a good account of themselves all round. Hurrell, Rialton and Hulse all played a good game. The halfbacks played well giving the forwards many chances to shine. They were quick to break up any attack and their placing to the front line was well executed. The forwards combined well together as a line and tested the goalie well and often.

For the Arlington's, Bell's display in goals was splendid. He had a strenuous afternoon and came through in great style.

Law got possession of the ball from a difficult angle, and beat the goalie all the way with a shot that lodged safely in the far corner of the net.

When half time was called the American Woolen was leading by one goal to nothing.

In the second half the Arlington displayed more aggressiveness and succeeded in tying the score amid loud cheering.

Dundas broke through and had to exert himself to the limit for he was well tackled but succeeded in steering the ball through and was injured in the effort. He was carried off, but soon returned after receiving attention.

Inch sent in a great shot that Ball failed to hold, the ball glancing into the net. Time was called a little later, American Woolen running out winners by three goals to one.

SATURDAY'S ACCIDENTS

Two Collisions on North Main Street Saturday Evening. No One Seriously Injured

Late Saturday night two automobile accidents occurred on North Main street. Archibald Murray of 457 Essex street received a broken nose and cuts about the head, but outside of this and damaged cars, the results were not serious.

The first accident happened near Kensington street when the autos of Michael J. Osmals of 102 Bailey street, Lawrence and Fred W. Westcott of 78 Summer street, crashed. Osmals' machine was considerably damaged and towed to a garage. According to the police Westcott was travelling without lights.

The second accident involved the cars of John Clark of the Shawsheen Pharmacy and Beatrice J. Mahoney of 144 Lawrence street, Lawrence. Clark's auto was driven by Raymond Mura of Haverhill street and was going toward Lawrence when it was struck by the car of Miss Mahoney, operated by Archibald Murray of 457 Essex street, Lawrence. Both machines were badly damaged and were towed to the Shawsheen Garage, and Murray was taken to his home where he received medical attention.

The second meeting of the Shawsheen Village Women's Club was held Tuesday evening, Nov. 1st in Balmoral Hall.

In spite of the weather much enthusiasm was shown as forty-five women were present and already the club members seventy-five.

General routine business was discussed. The constitution submitted by Mrs. Holt was approved and adopted. The report of the program committee was given by Mrs. Little and already the year's program is well outlined.

It was voted to have two additional members on the executive board and Mrs. George Winslow and Mrs. Albert Moore were elected for one year.

It was also voted to extend the club privileges to anyone living in West Parish.

All women who wish to become charter members of the club are asked to send in their names during the next two weeks.

The club voted to hold the regular meetings of the club on the first Monday of the month.

At nine o'clock the meeting adjourned until the fifth of December.

Tragedy Recipe

Take one reckless, natural born fool. Two or three big drinks of bad liquor. A fast, high-powered motor car. Soak the fool well in the liquor, place in the car and let him go. After due time, remove from the wreckage, place in black, satin lined box, and garnish with flowers.—Walton (Ga.) News.

Five Children Contract TB. From Milk of Infected Cow

When an early writer first framed the remark that truth is stranger than fiction, it was the outcome of vivid observation. The statement became true through repetition, but occasionally leaps into strong outline in fact. A case in point has just come to the notice of the United States Department of Agriculture.

The department, through its office of motion pictures, recently produced a film, Out of the Shadows, which told of tuberculosis creeping into a family through the unnoticed infection of a handsome herd of cattle. In the film the farmer disposed of his unhealthy animals and built on a sound basis.

Now comes a report through the Vermont County Farm Bureau of a case in Edgar County, Ill., more striking than the picture story and without its happy ending. A farmer had his herd tested for tuberculosis and one cow reacted. Instead of destroying her, the farmer declared the test undependable, removed the ear tag, and sold her to his hired man for wages.

Of seven children in the man's family, five have contracted pronounced cases of tuberculosis. The other two did not drink this cow's milk. A pig and cat also contracted disease after drinking the milk. A warrant has been issued for the original owner on charge of breaking quarantine, and, it is stated, should one of the children die, he will be subject to a charge of manslaughter.

If you're doing good work, don't worry; somebody will find it out.

OUR SEMI-FINISHED LAUNDRY SERVICE

OUR Semi-Finished Laundry Service means that we will do your family washing in the same manner as you would do it yourself or have a wash woman do it, except that we will demonstrate to you that we will do it better, cheaper, and save you the inconvenience as well as render you better service.

Our process for washing is even milder than you would use yourself. The clothing is washed by vacuum, not rubbed, thus lengthening the life of the garments.

The soap we use is the best money can buy. The water used is as soft or even softer than rain water, and every family washing will receive six different changes of water, thus insuring perfect washing and rinsing.

Our Semi-Finished Laundry Service means that your goods are dried in pure, hot air 212°, every piece sterilized, the flat pieces are nicely ironed and carefully folded, everything done up in a neat bundle and returned promptly.

Our Semi-Finished Laundry Service is eight cents the pound plus one cent a piece and we will iron all the body pieces for 7 cents each.

We would like to have you try this service if you will.
